

War Looms Between Lithuania, Germany

Attorney Rapolas Skiptis Says Government Wants Mari in Preference to Vilna in Talk Here

BROOKLYN NEWS

Attorney Rapolas Skiptis, prominent attorney of Kunas, Lithuania, and former minister of the interior of the Lithuanian government, addressed a large gathering of Lithuanians at St. Joseph's hall last night. The principal motive expressed in his talk had to do with a mass reunion of Lithuanians from all parts of the world in the Mother country in August. An invitation was extended all present to make the pilgrimage. Attorney Skiptis will act as president of the congress.

Attorney Skiptis told the people that the government was more interested in securing Mari rather than Vilna at the present time and that for this reason war clouds are looming between Lithuania and Germany. The city of Mari is a seaport near the German frontier and would be valuable to Lithuania. The Germans, he stated, have no location and use it principally as a fishing port. Without this small city the Lithuanian nation is lost for a seaport and its place at a commercial disadvantage. The speaker said that he believed that in good time Vilna will be returned.

During the evening a musical program was presented by the senior choir of St. Joseph's church, which was under the direction of Prof. Alexander Aleksis. The solo-

New Water Pollution Plan Given Momentum

Factories Discharging Harmful Sewage Would Be Required to Install Sewage Disposal Plants

Chicago, April 11.—A self-liquidating plan for national control of water pollution, which it is claimed would provide jobs for millions of the men now employed, is getting enthusiastic support at the thirteenth annual convention of the Izaak Walton League of America which opened here today.

The plan, devised by Grover C. Ladner, assistant attorney general of Pennsylvania, proposes the creation of water pollution abatement districts to deal with entire watersheds instead of attempting to control pollution of individual streams within state boundaries. This action would be preceded by the conferring of adequate authority on some existing federal agency to cooperate with state planning boards to insure uniformity of procedure covering pollution as well as to point out correct methods of pollution control.

Under this plan, every municipality and every factory discharging harmful sewage into a stream or lake would be required to install sewage disposal plants. The disposal plants would be constructed with federal funds and leased to industrial concerns and municipalities either on a conditional sales amortizing agreement or an annual rental basis. In the case of municipalities, title to the sewage disposal plants would be retained by the District Watershed Board until the government loan was repaid out of rentals.

Mr. Ladner outlined his proposal in an address at the opening of the three-day convention here today, basing its legal practicability on the supremacy of federal jurisdiction over interstate navigable waters as well as coastal streams.

The need of naturalization was stressed by Mr. Thayer. He said that the failure of many French people to become citizens has served to retard the race in Connecticut.

Several vocal selections were offered by Marcel Doucette, popular local tenor.

Basing its figures on the 1935 census of agriculture, the bureau said that between April 1, 1930, and January 1, 1935, the number of farms in Fairfield County increased from 2,081 to 2,545, or 166.6 per cent; the number of farms in New Haven County increased from 2,155 to 2,498, or 159 per cent; and the number of farms in New London County increased from 2,327 to 2,748, or 60.9 per cent.

The average increase for Connecticut was 102.7 per cent, from 17,195 farms in 1930 to 24,853 farms in 1935.

The increase for other Connecticut counties was reported as follows: Hartford, from 3,743 to 4,780, or 81.5 per cent; Eichfield, from 2,174 to 2,525, or 131 per cent; Middlesex, from 1,262 to 2,817, or 123.2 per cent; Tolland, from 1,553 to 2,731, or 75.8 per cent; and Windham, from 1,900 to 2,250, or 71 per cent.
